Olivia is frustrated with her classes. She is confused on what to do and she doesn't know anyone else in the class to reach out to.

She talks with her professor and her professor tells her about an app where she can upload her class schedule and find people with similar classes to her that she can talk to.

She downloads the app and uploads her schedule. She finds lots of people with similar schedules to hers. She can send them a friend request on the app and message them.

She meets three people in the same class and they make a study group together. Olivia finally understands the material in the class.
